Like you, we are a small business, with deep ties to the communities we serve. The Day has been an institution in southeastern Connecticut since 1881, and our sister company, Shore Publishing, has been serving communities along the shoreline since 1996.

In our entirety, we are proud to maintain a near total market footprint, with full coverage along the Connecticut coastline from North Haven through parts of Westerly and northward through Norwich. Our products are prevalent in New London County, Middlesex County, eastern New Haven County, and southern Windham County. In total, we serve more than 30 towns and communities throughout southeastern Connecticut with print, digital and targeted solutions.
When you advertise—or purchase a subscription to The Day—you’re not only helping to support our journalism, but you’re also making an investment in local communities.

how?

Through the Bodenwein Public Benevolent Foundation...which gives financial support to local non-profit organizations.

The Day is owned by a split-interest trust, which operates the company and supports the Bodenwein Public Benevolent Foundation. Theodore Bodenwein, the publisher of The Day from 1891 to 1939, created The Day Trust in his will and set explicit instructions about how he wanted the newspaper to operate after his death. After his last heir died, annual earnings would be distributed to the communities in The Day’s circulation area.

This unique arrangement ensures that the newspaper will remain independent and that profits from the newspaper will be distributed to non-profit organizations that help needy children, families and individuals and that support the arts. Since its inception, the Foundation has distributed more than $12 million.

one thing that hasn’t changed since 1881?
Like our advertisers, we are local—locally owned, locally operated, and fully committed to the communities we serve.
The world has changed a lot since the first copy of The Day newspaper left the press in 1881. so have we.

When technology and consumer preferences evolve, The Day responds—with cutting edge news features, and effective print and digital advertising solutions.

We strive to be experts in innovation, we put our creativity to work for you. We can help you maintain your business presence and identify your target audience, then help you reach them through dynamic print and digital campaigns.

Whether you’re rolling out a lengthy promotion or trying to get your name on the map, we will honor your investment and work to provide you with the best results. Our goal is to provide the marketing solutions to help drive your audience and achieve your business goals.

We will work with you to develop a customized marketing solution targeting your ideal customer that incorporates one or all of our proven marketing tactics, which include:

- print display advertising in The Day, our nine weeklies, and/or our glossy magazines and special sections that reach loyal newspaper readers.

- full suite of digital solutions including display banner advertising on theday.com and/or zip06.com., Search Engine Optimization (SEO), Search Engine Marketing (SEM), targeted email marketing, social media marketing, video, contests, and more.

- targeted pre-print and ad note insertion and distribution based on your desired zoning.

- event & contest sponsorships that place your brand, product, or message in the presence of your target audience.
Our daily and weekly newsprint publications appeal to those within the New London, Middlesex, and New Haven Counties who live, work, and play here. In addition, they are an asset for the robust tourism industry – a vital component of our market, especially in the warm weather months when we welcome visitors from across the globe who are seeking an escape with small New England charm - beaches, restaurants, the arts, theater, casinos, farms and countryside, quaint villages, and bustling cities.

The Day is the largest daily newspaper in southeastern Connecticut – reaching more than 35,500 readers on a single daily or Sunday edition. The Day is printed 7 days per week, 365 days per year—we never skip a beat.
